Legislative Decree 231 of 8 June 2001

1.1 Administrative liability of legal entities, companies and associations

Legislative Decree 231 was issued on 8 June 2001 setting out “Regulations on the administrative liability of legal entities, companies and associations with or without legal personality” (the “Decree” or “Legislative Decree 231/2001”) intended to adapt Italian laws and regulations on the liability of legal entities to several international agreements to which Italy had subscribed: the Brussels Convention of 26 July 1995 on the protection of the European Communities’ financial interests; the Brussels Convention of 26 May 1997 on the fight against corruption involving officials of the European Communities or officials of Member States of the European Union; and the OECD Convention of 17 December 1997 on combating bribery of foreign public officials in international business transactions.

Legislative Decree 231/2001 introduced into Italian legislation the concept of the administrative liability - principally criminal liability - of entities¹ for a number of crimes or administrative offences committed by the following persons in their interests of advantage, by:

- (i) individuals who hold representative, administrative or managerial positions in the entities in question, or in one of their financially and functionally independent organisational units, or individuals responsible (including de-facto) for the management and control of the said entities (“senior managers”);
- (ii) individuals managed or supervised by one of the persons indicated above.

If the crime or administrative offence is committed by a senior manager then the Company is presumed to be liable, as the senior managers express, represent and implement the Company’s management policies. On the contrary, there is no presumption of corporate liability if the crime or administrative offence is committed by a person subject to the management or supervision of one of the persons referred to in paragraph (i); in such cases the entity is liable for the subordinate’s offence only if it is found that commission of the offence was made possible by the failure of management and/or supervisory obligations.

The entity is held liable in addition to and not instead of the individual who materially carries out any offence, which, as such, is governed by normal criminal law. In any case, the liability of the entity and of the individual who materially committed the offence must both be verified in the same proceedings before a criminal court. The entity remains liable even if the individual who committed the crime has not been identified or is not punishable.

Liability under Legislative Decree 231/2001 only exists if the unlawful act was carried out in the interests or advantage of the entity. Therefore, liability under the Decree does not only exist if the offence resulted in an advantage for the entity (financial or otherwise), but also if - despite the absence of such a tangible outcome - the motivation for the offence can be shown to be in the interest of the Company. The entity is not, however, liable when the individual who committed the crime or administrative offence acted exclusively in the interest of a third party.

¹On the basis of legal precedent, the addressees of the Decree do not only include the specifically identified addresses (“legal entities, companies and associations with or without legal personality,” with the exception of the State, local government, other public entities and non-economic entities or entities that perform constitutionally significant functions), but also private companies exercising a public service (e.g. through a concession relationship) and subsidiaries of public administrations.

The Decree aims to involve entities that have benefitted from the commission of the crime or administrative offence, or in whose interest the crime or administrative offence was committed, in the prevention of certain crimes and administrative offences. Penalties are established for entities that have not taken organisational steps to avoid internal criminal activities, in the event that individuals functionally attributable to the said entity commit any of the crimes or administrative offences outlined in the Decree.

The objective of Legislative Decree 231/2001 is to build a model for corporate liability that is in line with protective principles but has a preventive function: in practice, by envisaging direct corporate liability in the event of an offence, the Decree intends to encourage the latter to organise its structures and activities in such a way as to ensure appropriate conditions to safeguard the interests protected under criminal law.

The Decree applies to both offences committed in Italy and those committed abroad, provided that: (i) the entity has its main offices in Italy (i.e., the effective headquarters where administrative and management functions are performed) or where it conducts continuous business, or (ii) the country where the crime was committed has not already taken direct action.

If liability under Legislative Decree 231/2001 is found to exist, the entity is subject to various penalties.

The penalties imposed on entities can be either financial or prohibitory. The most serious prohibitory penalties are: the suspension or cancellation of the authorisations, licences or concessions required for committing the offence; a ban on contracting with the public administration (except for obtaining a public service); a ban on performing the activity in question; exclusion from subsidies, funding, contributions or grants and the eventual revocation of those already awarded; or a ban on advertising goods or services.

Financial penalties are applied every time the entity commits one of the crimes or administrative offences covered by the Decree. On the contrary, prohibitory penalties can only be applied in relation to the offences for which they are specifically provided for, if at least one of the following conditions applies: (i) the entity has gained a substantial profit and the offence was carried out by senior managers, or by persons subject to the management or supervision of another individual, if the offence resulted from or was facilitated by serious organisational shortcomings; (ii) in the case of repeat offending.

Prohibitory measures can also be applied at the request of the public prosecutor as a precautionary measure during the investigative process, if there are serious indications of the entity's liability and there is substantial and specific grounds to believe that offences of the same nature are likely to be committed.

The sentence may also include confiscation from the entity of the price or profit from the offence, with the exception of that part which can be restored to the damaged party².

Where prohibitory penalties are applied, the Court may order publication of the conviction, which may have a serious impact on the image of the entity.

Finally, in specific circumstances, if the Court applies a prohibitory penalty that would stop the entity from performing its activities, then it can nominate an administrator who will be responsible for supervising these activities for a period of time equal to that of the ban.

The updated text of Legislative Decree 231/2001 is attached hereto as Annex A.

²If it is not possible to confiscate the actual assets that form the price or profit of the crime, then sums of money, goods or other assets of value equivalent to the price or of profit of the offence may be confiscated. Assets that correspond to the price or profit of the crime, or their monetary equivalent, may be confiscated as a precautionary measure.

1.2 Types of crimes and administrative offences

The offences and administrative offences involving the liability system provided for by Legislative Decree 231/2001 and originally referred exclusively to a series of offences committed in relations with the Public Administration (such as, inter alia, undue receipt of funds to the detriment of the State, misappropriation of funds from the State, fraud perpetrated against the State or other public bodies, computer fraud perpetrated against the State, extortion and corruption, etc.). Subsequent legislative measures have progressively broadened the list of offences (so-called 'predicate offences'), the commission of which may give rise to the administrative liability of entities.

Currently, the crimes/administrative offences that qualify as such under the Decree are as follows:

- Article 24, which currently refers to cases concerning "undue receipt of funds, fraud against the State, a public body or the European Union or to obtain public funds, computer fraud against the State or a public body and fraud in public supplies";
- Article 24-bis, concerning "cybercrime" and "unlawful data processing";
- Article 24-ter, concerning "organised crime";
- Article 25, which currently refers to cases such as "Embezzlement, extortion, illegal inducement to give or promise benefits and corruption and abuse of power";
- Article 25-bis, which refers to cases of "forgery of money, public credit instruments, revenue stamps and distinctive signs and instruments";
- Article 25-bis.1 with reference to "Crimes against industry and trade";
- Article 25-ter with reference to "corporate crimes" (such as, false company statements, market rigging, impeding company controls, transactions to the detriment of creditors);
- Article 25-quater, which refers to "crimes for the purposes of terrorism or subversion of democracy";
- Article 25-quater.1 concerning the crime of "female genital mutilation practices";
- Article 25-quinquies, which aims to prevent a number of "crimes against the individual" (e.g., reduction or maintenance of a person in a state of slavery or servitude, prostitution of minors and pornography involving minors, possession of pornographic materials, trafficking in persons, tourist initiatives aimed at the exploitation of child prostitution, illicit intermediation and exploitation of labour);
- Article 25-sexies, concerning "market abuse" crimes;
- Article 25-septies, concerning cases of "accidental offences (manslaughter and serious or very serious injury) committed in violation of the regulations on health and safety at work";
- Article 25-octies, concerning the crimes of "receiving, laundering and using money, goods or assets of unlawful origin, as well as self-laundering";
- Article 25-octies.1, which extends the administrative liability of the entity to "crimes relating to payment instruments other than cash and fraudulent transfer of values";
- Article 25-novies, concerning crimes referred to the "protection of copyright and other related rights";
- Article 25-decies, concerning "crimes connected to inducing individuals to refrain from making statements or to making false statements to legal authorities";

- Article 25-undecies, concerning “environmental crimes”;
- Article 25-duodecies with regard to the crime of “employment of illegally staying third-country nationals” and other crimes relating to illegal immigration;
- Article 25-terdecies with regard to crimes of “racism and xenophobia”;
- Article 25-quaterdecies concerning the crimes of “fraud in sporting competitions and illegal exercise of gambling and betting activities”;
- Article 25-quinquiesdecies concerning “tax crimes”;
- Article 25-sexiesdecies concerning “crimes of smuggling”;
- Article 25-septiesdecies, concerning “crimes against cultural heritage”;
- Article 25-duodevicies concerning crimes of “laundering of cultural heritage and devastation and looting of cultural and landscape assets.”

The scope of Legislative Decree 231/2001 has also been further extended by the law to “Ratify and implement the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organised Crime and its Protocols” (Law 146 of 16 March 2006), with particular reference to crimes of “transnational organised crime” (such as, for example, criminal association, mafia-type association, migrant trafficking, etc.)³.

Annex B details the various types of crime/administrative offence that can be categorised as “predicate offences” under Legislative Decree 231/2001.

1.3 Compliance Programmes

In general terms, the Decree states that entities are liable if they have not adopted the necessary measures to prevent the type of crimes or administrative offences committed.

However, in introducing corporate administrative liability, Article 6 Legislative Decree 231/2001 provides a specific form of “exemption” from such liability if the Company can demonstrate that:

- a) the management body of the entity has adopted and effectively implemented “compliance programmes” designed to prevent the type of crimes or administrative offences committed;
- b) the task of ensuring that the compliance programmes function and are observed, and that they are kept up-to-date, has been allocated to a unit of the entity with autonomous powers of initiative and control;
- c) the people who carried out offences did so by fraudulently ignoring the compliance and management programmes in question;
- d) there was neither insufficient supervision nor a lack of supervision by the unit referred to in letter b) above.

³There is also a particular case of administrative liability arising from an administrative offence and provided for outside the scope of Legislative Decree 231/2001. The case in question is governed by Articles 187-quinquies, as amended, of Legislative Decree 58 of 24 February 1998 (“Italian Finance Act” or “TUF”), which set out financial penalties (as well as confiscation - including of equivalent assets - of the product or profit of the offence and the assets used to commit it) against the entity in whose interest or advantage the administrative offences of insider dealing and market manipulation set out in Articles 187-bis and 187-ter of the TUF were committed.

Finally, it is worth noting a specific administrative liability for entities that operate in the production and sale of virgin olive oils, for a number of administrative offences arising from crimes, (Articles 440, 442, 444, 473, 474, 515, 516, 517, and 517-quater of the Criminal Code) as per Article 12 of Law 9 of 14 January 2013 (“Rules on the indication of origin and classification of virgin olive oils”).

This “exemption” from liability is therefore dependent on the judgement of suitability on the internal system of organisation and controls, to be made by the judge will make during the criminal proceedings against the person who materially committed the offence (senior manager or subordinate).

Therefore when preparing its compliance programmes, the entity must aim to ensure that the judgement on their suitability is favourable.

In particular, if the crime is committed by senior managers, the entity is liable unless it can prove: (i) that it adopted and effectively implemented, before the commission of the crime, an adequate compliance programme to prevent the type of crimes/administrative offences committed; (ii) that it has established a unit with independent powers of initiative, supervision and control, which has effectively monitored the observance of the compliance programme; (iii) that the crime was committed by fraudulent evasion of the compliance programme by a disloyal senior manager.

When, however, the offence is committed by subordinates, it must be proved that the commission of the unlawful act was made possible by the non-observance by senior managers of management and supervisory obligations; such obligations, however, cannot be considered to have been violated if, before the commission of the unlawful act, the entity adopted and effectively implemented a suitable compliance programme for preventing the type of crimes that occurred.

Legislative Decree 231/2001 also states that the compliance programmes must meet the following requirements:

- 1) identifying so-called “potential risks” by identifying the areas of the business or sectors of operations in which it is theoretically possible for the offences set out in the Decree to occur (“areas of at-risk activities”;
- 2) providing specific protocols for planning training and implementing the decisions of the entity in relation to the offences to be prevented, with the aim of reducing the identified risks to an acceptable level;
- 3) identifying methods for administrating the financial resources necessary for preventing such offences;
- 4) setting out obligations for sending information to the unit responsible for supervising the functioning and observance of the compliance programmes;
- 5) introducing an internal disciplinary system imposing sanctions for failure by entities to comply with the measures indicated in the compliance programme.

For the construction of the compliance programme, the Decree therefore refers to a typical company risk management system.

In addition, in order to ensure that the compliance programmes relating to the types of crimes/administrative offences outlined in the Decree are effectively implemented, they must be checked periodically and - when appropriate - amended in response to any actual violations or changes in the company’s organisation or business activities.

With particular reference to the risks deriving from the commission of unlawful acts related to health and safety at work, Article 30 Legislative Decree 81 of 9 April 2008 (“Italian Safety Act”) - as amended by Legislative Decree 106 of 3 August 2009 (“Additions and corrections to Legislative Decree 81 of 9 April 2008 on health and safety at work”) - also introduces a presumption of compliance for corporate compliance programmes defined in accordance with recognised international standards (currently, standard UNI ISO 45001 of 2018).

The Compliance Programme pursuant to Legislative Decree 231/2001 of DIGITALIA '08 S.r.l.

(II)

2.1 General characteristics of the Compliance Programme

Within the framework of the Compliance Programme already existing for some time in the MFE Group and in the belief that the conduct of business and the management of corporate activities must take place on the basis of the values of efficiency, fairness and loyalty, in every process of daily work, DIGITALIA '08 S.r.l. (“DIGITALIA” or the “Company”) has put in place the necessary activities to adapt its compliance programme⁴ to the provisions of the Decree (hereinafter referred to as ‘Compliance programme’), also constantly updating it, considering the legislative innovations that have occurred from time to time, the consequent expansion of the catalogue of predicate offences, as well as the progressive jurisprudential measures on the subject of compliance programmes.

For the Company, the adoption (and subsequent updates) of the Compliance Programme constitutes an essential tool to ensure that its Addressees - as defined below - adopt, in the performance of their work activities and/or their duties or functions, correct, lawful and straightforward conduct, such as to prevent the risk that the offences covered by the Decree are committed.

The Board of Directors of DIGITALIA approved the initial version of the Compliance Programme on 16 March 2011 and subsequently amended and supplemented it with the resolutions of 16 April 2014, 2 March 2015, 8 March 2017, 11 March 2019 and 22 March 2021.

This version - to be considered a replacement for the previous one - was adopted by resolution of the DIGITALIA Board of Directors of 26 March 2024, following an analysis process which took into account: (i) new offences introduced by the legislator as well as other new legislation, such as Legislative Decree No. 24 of 10 March 2023 (“Implementation of Directive (EU) 2019/1937 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 23 October 2019 on the protection of persons who report breaches of Union law and of persons who report breaches of national laws”); (ii) corporate transactions during the period and new and different organisational structures assumed by the Company; (iii) ongoing assessment of the operation and effectiveness of the Compliance Programme over time, and (iv) a comprehensive assessment of the need to update it.

Model 231 is intended for all those who work in any capacity for DIGITALIA, regardless of the relationship - even temporary - that binds them to it; In particular, it is binding for persons who: (i) hold a representative, administrative, managerial or supervisory position in the Company; (ii) are subject to the management or supervision of one of the persons referred to at point (i) above (the “Addressees”).

DIGITALIA’s objective in adopting the Compliance Programme is to introduce a structured and comprehensive system comprising a set of general rules of conduct, procedures and control activities that meets the aims and requirements of Legislative Decree 231/2001, both in terms of the preventing crimes/administrative offences referred to in the Decree (preventive controls) and in terms of checking that the Compliance Programme is implemented and that any penalties are enforced (ex-post controls).

⁴The compliance programme is to be understood as a set of business rules of a general, behavioural and operational nature, which are expressed - among other things - in the organizational structure of the Company, in the system of allocation of delegations and powers, in organizational guidelines and operating practices, and in the disciplinary system and so on.

⁵The foreign subsidiary Publiceurope Ltd have independently defined its company protocols and procedures in line with the principles of the Compliance Programme, in accordance with the regulations in force in the countries where they are established (“Bribery Act 2010”) and in relation to their typical activities and specific operating segments. The “Guidance about procedures which relevant commercial organisations can put into place to prevent persons associated with them from bribing (section 9 of the Bribery Act 2010)” was taken into account in the preparation of the protocols and procedures.

The process of adapting the Compliance Programme - for the purposes of its original definition and subsequent updates - was carried out taking into account the provisions of the Guidelines drawn up on the subject by Confindustria⁶ as well as the specific initiatives already implemented by the Mediaset Group on internal control and corporate governance.

In particular, the amendment process has been used for the following specific types of offences under the Decree:

- “crimes that can be committed during relationships with the Public Administration” (Articles 24 and 25)⁷;
- “cybercrime and unlawful data processing” (article 24-bis);
- “organised crime” (article 24-ter);
- crime of “forging money, public credit notes, revenue stamps and distinctive signs and instruments” (article 25-bis);
- “crimes against industry and trade” (article 25-bis 1);
- “corporate crimes”, including “private-to-private corruption” (article 25-ter);
- “crimes of terrorism or subversion of the democratic order as envisaged by the Criminal Code and special laws” (article 25-quater);
- “crimes against the individual” (article 25-quinquies);
- offences involving “market abuse” (article 25-sexies);
- “accidental offences” (manslaughter and serious and very serious injury) committed in violation of the regulations on health and safety at work” (article 25-septies);
- crimes of “receiving, laundering and using money, goods or assets of unlawful origin, as well as self-laundering” (article 25-octies);
- “offences relating to non-cash payments and fraudulent transfer of values” (article 25-octies.1);
- “copyright infringement and related crimes” (article 25-novies);
- “crimes connected to inducing individuals to refrain from making statements or to making false statements to legal authorities” (article 25-decies);

⁶The first version of Confindustria's 'Guidelines for the construction of compliance programmes', drawn up in 2002 and approved by the Ministry of Justice in 2004, was subsequently updated several times, partly as a result of the numerous legislative measures that expanded the catalogue of predicate offences. The last update is dated 21 June 2021.

⁷In particular:

- with regard to Article 24, the following crimes: undue receipt of public funds, fraud (including aggravated fraud) to the detriment of the State, a public body or the European Union for the purpose of obtaining public funds, embezzlement and computer fraud to the detriment of the State or a public body, and disturbance of the freedom of tenders and of the procedure for the choice of contracting parties;
- with regard to Article 25, the following crimes: illegal inducement to give or promise benefits, public corruption, private-to-private corruption, incitement to private-to-private corruption and trafficking in illicit influences.

- “environmental crimes” (article 25-undecies);
- the offence of “employment of illegally staying third-country nationals” (article 25-duodecies);
- “tax crimes” (article 25-quinquiesdecies);

and the provisions of Law 146/1990 concerning “transnational crimes”⁸.

The individual cases of predicate offences considered theoretically applicable to the Company are indicated in Annex C Organisational and supervisory controls (for each area of at-risk activities and associated predicate offences).

The Compliance Programme will be updated, where necessary, in relation to any further regulatory provisions that may be issued in the future by the legislator in the scope of application of Legislative Decree 231/2001, in order to ensure over time its adequacy and suitability to prevent the predicate offences identified by the Company from being committed.

2.2 The Code of Ethics

The Code of Ethics of the MFE Group contains the fundamental principles and values that inspire the Group (and, therefore, the Company) in the pursuit of social objectives and is a founding component of the Compliance Programme and the overall internal control system.

The aim of the Code of Ethics was to clearly define the principles and values that the MFE Group recognises, accepts and shares, and whose observance is essential for the proper performance of its activities, reliable operations and the image of the Mediaset Group, in the conviction that for the Company to be successful it must carry out its business in an ethical way. The Code of Ethics sets out the fundamental ethical principles and values (such as fairness, propriety, transparency, responsibility and good faith) that permeate every aspect of day-to-day work and are essential for successful relationships with MFE Group companies at every level.

The principles of the Code of Ethics also provide the foundation on which the Compliance Programme is built and act as a useful reference for the actual application of the Compliance Programme within the Group as regards company dynamics, also in order to comply with the provisions of Article 6 Legislative Decree 231/2001.

The rules and guidelines of the Code of Ethics, constituting a common basis of values for all Group companies, are binding for the Addressees: As such, the Code of Ethics applies not only to employees of the Company but also to all who work for/with Group companies, regardless of the relationship between them, which may also be temporary, and including the directors and statutory auditors.

The Code of Ethics states that respect for the law, current regulations and commonly accepted business ethics is a fundamental principle of the MFE Group’s actions. It also establishes the principles that (i) all Addressees must follow in their everyday work/roles/functions; (ii) must guide all operations, conduct and relationships, both within and outside the Group. The Code of Ethics was distributed to all Addressees following its adoption and after all subsequent amendments. In addition, all collaboration and supply contracts and, more generally, contracts concerning third-party business relationships with Group companies have been amended to contain an explicit reference to the Code of Ethics (and the Company's Compliance Programme) and to state that any violation of the fundamental principles of the Code may constitute a breach of contractual obligations.

⁸The assessments of the system of preventive controls considered the offences covered by the Decree at the time of the analysis. Therefore, the amendment process focused on unlawful acts that were considered to be a priority for the Company, given its organisation and the nature of its activities. Moreover, other types of offences covered by the Decree (e.g. those envisaged in Article 25-querter.1) have been excluded because DIGITALIA has decided that it is extremely unlikely - if not impossible - that they will be committed, due to the nature of its activities.

The penalties that can be imposed if the Code is violated (as indicated in paragraph 2.6 below, System of penalties) demonstrate the importance of the Code of Ethics and its functioning for the Company and the Group.

2.3 Process for updating the Compliance Programme: aims and procedures

DIGITALIA's decision to adopt a compliance programme pursuant to Legislative Decree 231/2001 (and to ensure that it is constantly updated) is part of a broader Company and MFE Group policy aimed at the education of Addressees, transparent and proper management of company activities, and compliance with current laws and the fundamental principles of business ethics.

The main aim of the Compliance Programme is to establish a structured and comprehensive system of procedures/rules of conduct and control activities, which are to be carried out mainly as preventive measures in order to stop - as far as possible - the various types of crimes/administrative offences referred to in the Decree from being committed.

In particular, the aims of the Compliance Programme are to:

- promote and establish a business culture based on respect for the law and regulations, preventing and as far as possible limiting the possible risks connected to business activities, with particular regard to identifying and mitigating any unlawful conduct;
- promote a culture of "control", in order to oversee the achievement of the Company's objectives over time;
- ensure efficient and balanced organisation of the business, with specific reference to the decision-making process and decision transparency, as well as preventive controls and follow-up controls, and internal and external information;
- raise awareness among all the Addressees - and in particular all those who work in the name and on behalf of DIGITALIA in potentially at-risk areas of business activity (areas of at-risk activities) - that if they breach the provisions of the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or associated company procedures, these unlawful acts may make them and the Company liable to criminal and administrative penalties;
- emphasise that the Company condemns these forms of unlawful behaviour, regardless of their type or aims, as they are against the law and the ethical principles that the Company and the MFE Group companies follow in their activities and in pursuit of their business objectives;
- enable the Company to maintain constant control and careful supervision of its business activities, so that it can intervene promptly either (i) for preventive purposes, by monitoring the areas of "at-risk activities" and stopping the commission of such unlawful acts before they happen, or (ii) applying the disciplinary measures envisaged by the Compliance Programme.

As noted above, when preparing the Compliance Programme, DIGITALIA followed established corporate governance and internal control principles, in keeping with the Enterprise Risk Management policies adopted by the Group.

According to these principles, a risk management and control system in line with the provisions of Legislative Decree No. 231/2001, integrated and made consistent with the overall management of corporate processes, provides for the following characteristics:

- (i) it identifies and maps the “areas of at-risk activities”, i.e. those areas of company activities where crimes/administrative offences could potentially take place;
- (ii) it analyses potential risks by “areas of at-risk activities” in terms of the potential ways in which the unlawful acts could be committed;
- (iii) it analyses potential risks and evaluates the Company’s system of preventive controls for offences, where necessary defining and amending this system.

The process of creating the Compliance Programme was therefore divided into two phases:

- a) identification and formal mapping of risks, i.e., an analysis of the Company context in order to identify (i) the crimes/administrative offences that apply to the Company, (ii) the areas that - based on the actual activities performed by the Company - could potentially involve the commission of crimes and, finally, (iii) the possible ways in which the unlawful events covered by Legislative Decree 231/2001 may occur and its aims;
- b) definition of the Compliance Programme, by evaluating the organisational, management and control system for existing risks within DIGITALIA, and subsequent updates to the compliance programme by adding to or amending the existing preventive controls and formalising them in specific procedures, where necessary, to effectively prevent the identified risks and, in any case, to reduce them to an acceptable level.

2.4 The “Areas of at-risk activities”

On the basis of the results of the risk identification activities carried out by DIGITALIA, the following ‘areas of at-risk activity’ have been identified, understood - as outlined above - as company areas affected by potential offences:

- 1) managing obligations with the Public Administration for authorisations, licences and/or public concessions;
- 2) managing relations with the Public Administration or public supervisory authorities for audits and inspections;
- 3) organising training programmes and/or services for personnel that are financed using public grants;
- 4) managing relations with the Board of Statutory Auditors and investors;
- 5) managing accounts and preparing annual and interim financial statements;
- 6) preparing the sustainability report;
- 7) managing tax obligations;
- 8) managing intercompany relations;
- 9) managing extraordinary transactions;

- 10) sourcing and managing insurance services;
- 11) managing relations with credit institutions;
- 12) managing relations with factoring companies;
- 13) managing collections and payments;
- 14) managing cash reserves;
- 15) purchasing goods and services;
- 16) managing logistics;
- 17) obtaining professional assignments;
- 18) monitoring content for broadcast;
- 19) selling advertising spaces;
- 20) managing exchange goods transactions;
- 21) managing loans;
- 22) managing relationships with agents and brokers;
- 23) managing negotiating rights;
- 24) selecting and hiring personnel;
- 25) managing human resources⁹;
- 26) personnel administration;
- 27) managing social security and pensions compliance obligations;
- 28) managing travel expenses;

- 31) managing legislative compliance for health and safety at work;
- 32) management of legal compliance for the protection of the environment;
- 33) managing and disclosing inside information;
- 34) obtaining confidential information;

⁹Specifically refers to: incentive system; awards of promotions/pay increases and fringe benefits.

35) managing judicial, extra-judicial and arbitration proceedings;

36) managing the Company's IT systems¹⁰.

The results of the process of risk mapping and analysing the "areas of at-risk activities" are contained in specific documents kept at the Company's premises.

Annex C contains a description of the "areas of at-risk activities" (direct or indirect), associated crimes and the various organisational controls put in place by the Company.

2.5 Procedures defined in the Compliance Programme 231

Once identification of the risks and "areas of at-risk activities" was completed, the next step involved implementing an assessment and evaluation of the effectiveness of the Company's compliance system, duly documenting - where necessary - the standards and control activities to be applied in the various processes in order to prevent the unlawful acts identified by the Decree.

The procedures/rules of conduct referring to the Compliance Programme are defined and updated by the competent corporate functions and brought to the attention of the Addressees by means of appropriate communications and made available through publication on the corporate intranet in special sections.

The procedures/rules of conduct covered by the Compliance Programme add to the principles outlined in the Code of Ethics, company regulations, organisational charts, service orders, the system of allocating delegations, powers and company proxies and all other organisational and control tools - also part of the Compliance Programme - that are already used or operational within the Company.

The procedures outlined in the Compliance Programme and other company provisions correspond to general internal control principles, in keeping with the best practices concerning risk management, aimed at ensuring sound and correct management of the Company that is consistent with its pre-established aims and compliance with the provisions of Legislative Decree 231/2001. In general, the Company's internal control system, as set out in company procedures and other internal company regulations, must:

- ensure, in terms of company processes, an adequate level of separation of functions so as to reduce the possibility of "at-risk" conduct and facilitate its rapid identification;
- ensure that powers of authority and signature are allocated in line with the organisational and management responsibilities assigned;
- guarantee the use of operational and administrative-accounting systems and procedures that ensure complete and accurate recording of company events and operations;
- ensure that financial resources are managed in complete accordance with current laws and that every financial transaction is promptly authorised and accurately and completely recorded and reported;
- guarantee the traceability of control and monitoring activities carried out on the operational processes and administrative-accounting activities.

¹⁰Specifically refers to: system software licence management, management of physical and logical security, segregation of duties, website management.

2.6 General Anti-Corruption Guidelines. Prevention of Tax Offences

Considering the constant strengthening of the fight against public and private corruption, both internationally and in view of Italian lawmakers particular focus on combating corruptive practices (from the Anti-Corruption Law of 2012), to align the Group with the best practices that have gradually developed to combat corruption, the Compliance Programme also comprises a document dedicated to “General Anti-Corruption Guidelines” (Annex D). These set out a systematic reference system on preventing corruptive practices, providing - in accordance with chapter III (Business Conduct) of the Code of Ethics - a summary of the ethical and conduct-related rules that the Addressees must follow (especially if they work in specific “areas of at-risk activities,” such as relations with institutions and public officials, procurement of goods and services, sale of goods and services) in order to avoid any illicit or improper conduct, and to respect the provisions of current laws and regulations on preventing corruption, and the principles and values contained in the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and company procedures adopted from to time.

The broadening of the scope of the underlying offences to include some of the offences provided for by Legislative Decree no. 74 of 10 March 2000 (tax crimes) has prompted the companies to become increasingly aware of corporate risks - including at tax level. In this context, therefore, a careful and coordinated intervention was defined, aimed at eliminating or at least mitigating the risk of the offences set out in Article 25-quinquiesdecies of the Decree from being committed.

Specifically, the MFE Group has defined a “Tax Compliance Model” with the aim of regulating the methods, tools and organisation of the tax risk governance system (understood as the risk of operating in violation of tax regulations or, in general, in contrast with the principles or purposes of the tax system), through the adoption of an appropriate system for the detection, assessment, management and control of this risk (“Tax Control Framework” or “TFC”).

Based on the reference model developed by the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) and on national and international best practices, the TFC adopted by the Group is aimed at guaranteeing an adequate identification, measurement and management of tax risk, through a clear assignment of roles and responsibilities to the various sectors of the corporate organisation, the adoption of and compliance with specific procedures, as well as the definition of controls to detect any shortcomings in the functioning of the system and for the activation of appropriate corrective actions.

2.7 System of penalties

Pursuant to Article 6, paragraph 2, letter a) and Article 7, paragraph 4, letter b) of the Decree, the definition of a suitable disciplinary system that sanctions infringements of the Compliance Programme and the associated company procedures by senior managers and/or persons subject to the management or supervision of others, is an indispensable part of the compliance programme and essential for guaranteeing its effectiveness.

The provision of penalties, duly commensurate with the violation committed and endowed with “deterrence mechanisms,” is intended to contribute to ensuring both the effectiveness and effectiveness of the Compliance Programme and of the supervisory and control activities carried out by the supervisory and control body.

In accordance with the Decree, the Company has therefore declared that any violation of the rules of the Code of Ethics or of the provisions of the Compliance Programme and/or associated procedures will result in penalties for the Addressees. Such violations damage the relationship of trust - based on transparency, propriety, integrity and honesty - created with the Company and may lead to disciplinary action being taken against the individuals in question and penalties being imposed. This applies regardless of the initiation of any criminal or administrative proceedings - in cases where the conduct does or does not constitute an offence - and of the outcome of the ensuing judgement.¹¹

The penalties and relative procedures for charging violations differ depending on the different categories of Addressees.

Company Employees

Any conduct by employees which violates the principles and rules of conduct contained in the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or company procedures is considered to be a breach of the primary obligations of the employment relationship and therefore also qualify as disciplinary offences.

The penalties that can be imposed on employees are covered by the Company disciplinary system and/or the system of penalties provided for by the specific regulations contained in particular in the applicable national collective labour agreement (CCNL) and supplementary company contracts (CIA), in accordance with the procedures contained in Article 7 of Law 300/1970 (Workers' Statute) and any applicable special and/or sector regulations.

The DIGITALIA disciplinary system therefore comprises the regulations contained in the Civil Code, the special laws that exist concerning this matter and the agreed provisions of the CCNL and the CIA. Any violations are verified and the consequent disciplinary procedures are implemented by the relevant company management structure, in accordance with current laws and regulations and with the provisions of the applicable National Collective Labour Agreement and Contracts.

The penalties contemplated by the contractual provisions in force (e.g., national collective labour agreement - CCNL - for employees of tertiary, distribution and service companies: verbal warning, written warning, a fine of up to the equivalent of 4 hours' salary, suspension from work and of salary for up to 10 days, disciplinary dismissal) are applied taking into account the importance of the obligations violated and:

- the gravity of the conduct and, in particular, the degree of intent in the conduct or the degree of negligence, imprudence or malpractice involved;
- the overall conduct of the employee, with particular regard to the existence or lack of previous disciplinary penalties and to repeat offending;
- the hierarchical and/or functional position, role and duties of the employee in question;
- the presence of aggravating or mitigating circumstances with particular regard to the professionalism of the person involved and the circumstances in which the violation was committed;
- any shared responsibility with other persons complicit in the violation;
- any other relevant, specific circumstances relating to the violation in question.

¹¹In any case, since any violation of the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or internal procedures is independent of any violation of the law that may constitute a crime or administrative offence pursuant to Legislative Decree 231/2001, the evaluation by the Company of such conduct by the Addressees may not be the same as the judicial evaluation expressed in a court of law.

Disciplinary penalties may be applied, purely by way of example and by no means exhaustively, to the following actions, including if performed in association with others:

- failure to respect, in general, the rules of conduct contained in the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or the associated company procedures, including by omission;
- failure to observe regulations and principles of good conduct as set out in Italian and international laws containing organisational and preventative rules, clearly directed towards committing one of the unlawful acts covered by the Decree;
- failure to act in accordance with the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or the associated company procedures, exposing the Company to at-risk situations with regard to the offences outlined in the Decree;
- failure to follow the procedures and/or processes for implementing the decisions of senior managers and/or superiors for organisational and operational activities;
- failure to respect company procedures concerning records and traceability of work performed, with reference to procedures for documenting, conserving and checking records, in such a way as to impede their transparency or verifiability;
- violation and/or evasion of the control system in force by removing, destroying or altering the documentation required under by company procedures;
- conduct designed to obstruct or evade controls and/or unjustifiably preventing persons responsible for controls, including the supervisory and control body, from accessing information and documents;
- breach of the provisions pertaining to powers of corporate signature and, in general, the system of delegated powers;
- lack of supervision by superiors on the conduct of the individuals under their supervision with regard to the correct and efficient application of the principles/rules of conduct contained in the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or associated company procedures;
- non-compliance with reporting obligations towards the Supervisory and Control Body or repeated delays in sending the requested data and/or information;
- violation of the measures put in place to protect the confidentiality of the identity of those who, under the whistleblowing system adopted by the MFE Group, report offences and/or irregularities, including suspected ones, of violations of the Code of Ethics, of the Compliance Programme (and of the company procedures relating thereto) or of unlawful conduct relevant under Legislative Decree 231/2001;
- groundless reports, made with intent or gross negligence, offences and/or irregularities, including suspected ones, of violations of the Code of Ethics, of the Compliance Programme (and of the company procedures that refer to it) or of significant illegal conduct pursuant to the Decree.

If the disciplinary penalties are applied to employees with the authority to represent the Company, the penalties could result in such authority being withdrawn.

Executives

Executives have a relationship with the Company that is pre-eminently based on trust. Therefore it is essential that company executives respect the principles and provisions of the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or associated company procedures, and that they ensure that these principles and requirements are respected.

Since these individuals are also employees of the Company, any violations are verified and the consequent disciplinary procedures are implemented by the relevant company management structure, in accordance with current laws and regulations and with the provisions on executives of the CCNL for Executives of Tertiary, distribution and services businesses.

In the event of violation, by executives, of the provisions of the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or the company procedures that refer to it, or of the adoption, in the performance of activities in the “areas of at-risk activities” of conduct that does not comply - including in terms of omission - with the prescriptions contained therein, or in the event that the executive allows persons hierarchically subordinate to them to adopt conduct that does not comply with the aforementioned prescriptions, the Company shall apply to those responsible the most appropriate penalties with respect to the seriousness of the conduct committed, in accordance with the nature of the executive relationship as also resulting from regulations in force and from the National Collective Labour Agreement for Executives of Tertiary, distribution and services businesses (from written reprimand up to, in the most serious cases, dismissal with or without notice, in particular where the conduct seriously undermines the fiduciary relationship, so as not to allow the continuation, whether temporary or not, of the employment relationship).

If the disciplinary penalties are applied to executives with the authority to represent the Company, the penalties could result in such authority being withdrawn.

Collaborators, suppliers and/or persons/entities who have business relationships with the Company

The Company believes that any action taken by external persons/entities that could constitute one of the offences referred to in the Decree must be censured and prevented. Therefore, for collaborators, suppliers and/or persons/entities that have business relations with MFE Group companies - regardless of the relationship, even temporary, between them - any failure to comply with the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or the associated company procedures is a breach of contractual obligations for all legal consequences. In the most serious cases, such a breach can therefore result in termination of contract and/or dismissal, as well as payment of damages claimed by the Company.

Directors and statutory auditors

The Company examines any violation by senior managers of the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or the associated company procedures very closely, since they are the leaders of the Company and represent it to employees, shareholders, creditors and the market. Indeed, to create and consolidate a company ethic based on the values of propriety, fairness and transparency, these values must to be embodied and respected above all by company decisionmakers, so that they set an example and act as inspiration for everyone who work in and for the Company at all levels.

Therefore, in the event of any violation by directors and/or statutory auditors of the principles and provisions of the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or the associated company procedures, or if they take decisions as part of their duties that violate these provisions, the competent company bodies will be responsible for adopting the most appropriate protective measures in each case, in accordance with current laws and regulations, including revocation of any delegated powers and/or mandates.

Whether or not any protective measures are invoked, the Company has the right to take the actions allowed under the Civil Code (e.g., actions for liability and/or compensation).

For violations by a senior manager who is also an employee, the relevant disciplinary actions applicable to Company employees will be invoked in addition to - and not instead of - the actions for liability and/or compensation.

Supervisory and Control Body

For members of Supervisory and Control Body, if they are employed by the Company then the provisions of the sections on “employees” and/or “executives” are applied; if, however, they are collaborators or consultants, then the provisions of the section on “collaborators” are applied.

2.8 Supervisory and Control Body

Article 6, paragraph 1, letters b) and d) of the Decree, exempt the entity from liability if it adopts and effectively implements a compliance programme suitable to prevent the commission of predicate offences. These Articles also require the entity to establish a body endowed with an independent power both of control - to supervise the operation of and compliance with the Compliance Programme) and of initiative, to ensure that it is constantly updated.

As such, assigning these tasks and their correct, timely and effective performance are essential prerequisites for exempting the entity from liability. In keeping with the principle of effectiveness, aside from its formal identification, the body must be able to actually complete the complex and sensitive task attributed to it by the Decree.

For the effective and efficient implementation of the Compliance Programme, this supervisory and control body must have the following characteristics:

- i) autonomy and independence - the position of the body within the entity must ensure the autonomy of its inspection and control activities from any form of interference and/or conditioning by any member of the entity (and, in particular, by the management body and senior persons in general). In the event that the body has a mixed collegial composition (i.e., it also includes the presence of persons within the body), the degree of independence of the body is assessed as a whole.
- ii) professionalism - the body must possess appropriate skills to be able to adequately and effectively perform the tasks assigned to it, also with regard to inspection activities and analysis of the control system, as well as in-depth knowledge of the corporate and company organisational structure: Together with its autonomy and independence, these characteristics guarantee the objectivity of its judgements.
- iii) continuity of action - the body must represent a dedicated structure, which - with the necessary powers of inspection and control - constantly monitors compliance with the Compliance Programme, oversees its implementation and ensures that it is regularly updated.

Considering the size, organisational complexity and activities carried out by the Company, the DIGITALIA supervisory and control body (hereinafter, “Supervisory and Control Body” or “Body”) is a collegial body, appointed by the Board of Directors according to the logic and criteria described below, and is made up of three members, of which at least two are external to the Company¹².

¹²The Company did not deem it appropriate to entrust the functions of supervisory and control body pursuant to Legislative Decree 231/2001 to the Board of Statutory Auditors.

This choice was deemed appropriate as it satisfies the need for the role and responsibility to be assigned to persons who can wholly guarantee the effective autonomy and independence of the Body. In any case, the identification of the members is assessed on a case-by-case basis, taking into account the characteristics of the Company, the regulatory and jurisprudential developments on the subject, as well as the indications expressed by doctrine and trade associations.

Requirements

The members of DIGITALIA's Supervisory and Control Body must meet the same integrity standards as directors of the Company and professional standards commensurate with the position they will hold. In addition, they must not be ineligible for any reason or have conflicts of interest with other company departments and/or positions such as to undermine their independence and freedom of action and judgement. The Company's Board of Directors must check, from time to time, that the members of Mediaset's Supervisory and Control Body meet these requirements, both before their appointment and periodically - at least once a year - throughout their term in office. If any member of the Body has been definitively convicted by judgment or plea bargain, in particular of one of the offences covered by the Decree, they will be found to be ineligible and dismissed from office for just cause.

Appointment, term in office, dismissal

The Board of Directors of DIGITALIA appoints the Supervisory and Control Body, which normally remains in office for the term of the Board of Directors that appointed it or for a different term if so defined in the board resolution on its appointment. Upon expiry of their term of office, members may be reappointed.

To ensure its full autonomy and independence, the Supervisory and Control Body reports directly to the Board of Directors of the Company.

If even one of the integrity, professionalism, eligibility and/ or conflict of interest requirements referred to in the previous section is no longer met while still in office, then the member in question will be dismissed.

The Company Board of Directors is responsible for dismissing members of the Supervisory and Control Body. In the event of dismissal or forfeit, the Board of Directors promptly replaces the outgoing member, subject to prior verification of the subjective requirements indicated above. The term in office of the Supervisory and Control Body will expire in the event of dismissal or forfeit of all its members. In this case, the Board of Directors of the Company shall make a new appointment without delay.

Duties and responsibilities

In carrying out its activities, the Supervisory and Control Body - under its direct supervision and responsibility - is mainly supported by the Internal Auditing Department, and may avail itself - where necessary - of the support of other corporate functions (such as, for example, the Legal Affairs Department, the Compliance Programmes Coordinator, the Corporate Affairs Department, the personnel, organisation and training functions, etc.), or of external consultants with specific professional skills.

The Supervisory and Control Body has the following responsibilities:

- i) to ensure that the rules of the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or the associated company procedures are observed by Addressees, detecting and reporting any violations and/or deviations from these rules and, in light of any violations, noting the sectors that are most at risk;

- ii) to check the effectiveness and actual ability of the Compliance Programme to prevent the offences referred to in Legislative Decree 231/2001, with regard to individual company departments and the business activities performed;
- iii) to guarantee that Compliance Programme remains robust, effective and functional as time passes;
- iv) to check if the Compliance Programme needs to be updated, where it is found that should be amended and/or supplemented due to changes in regulations, the Company's shareholding/organisational structure and/or how the Company carries on its business, or in the event of significant violations of the requirements of the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or associated company procedures;
- v) to obtain from all Addressees of the Compliance Programme the company documents and information deemed useful for fulfilling its duties and responsibilities;
- vi) to verify that Addressees receive suitable information and training on the principles, values and rules of conduct set out in the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or associated company procedures, including on each occasion when it receives requests for clarifications and reports;
- vii) to verify the adequacy of the initiatives connected with providing information and training about the principles, values and rules of conduct contained in the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or the associated company procedures, as well as the level of knowledge of Addressees, with particular reference to individuals who work in "areas of at-risk activities";
- viii) to report periodically to the various company bodies;
- ix) to collect, elaborate and store reports and material information sent in by the various company departments in relation to the Compliance Programme and the associated company procedures, and to store the results of this work and the relevant reports;
- x) to send the Whistleblowing Committee, for the activities falling within its competence, any reports received concerning violations and/or unlawful conduct relevant pursuant to Legislative Decree 231/01 or violations of the Code of Ethics and/or Compliance Programme, adopting operating procedures to ensure the utmost confidentiality on the identity of the whistleblower (and of other persons deserving protection) and on the content of the report.

To undertake its responsibilities, the Supervisory and Control Body may, at any time whatsoever, at its own discretion and independently, verify the application of the Compliance Programme and the associated company procedures. In doing so its members may act jointly or severally.

In particular, these checks may include:

- i) checks on specific company operations: to this end the Supervisory and Control Body will thoroughly check the acts and/or contracts and in general the company documents relating to the "areas of at-risk activities" in the manner and frequency established by the Body itself;
- ii) checks on the procedures/rules of conduct adopted: to this end the Supervisory and Control Body will periodically check the effectiveness and implementation of the procedures/rules of conduct associated with the Compliance Programme.

Following the audits carried out, regulatory and/or organisational changes made from time to time, as well as in the event of new areas of at-risk activities or of significant violations of the provisions of the Code of Ethics, Compliance Programme and/or the corporate procedures that refer to it, the Supervisory and Control Body shall inform to the competent corporate functions of the need to update the Compliance Programme and/or the relevant procedures or undertake specific initiatives and/or corrective actions.

The Supervisory and Control Body will carry out follow-up checks to ensure that the recommended corrective actions are implemented by the relevant company departments.

If the Addressees have any queries and/or problems understanding the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or associated company procedures, they can ask the Supervisory and Control Body for the necessary clarifications.

To carry out the specific supervisory and control activities assigned to it, the Supervisory and Control Body is provided with annual funding, which is periodically updated according to the specific needs that arise. The funds are designed to enable it to perform the responsibilities referred to above and to ensure that the Board has total financial and managerial independence.

Functioning of the Supervisory and Control Body

The Supervisory and Control Body meets as a rule once every two months and whenever any of its members deem it necessary.

Minutes must be kept for every meeting and signed by all members. Meetings are validly constituted with the presence of its members and can also be held remotely, through common IT platforms. The decisions of the Supervisory and Control Body are taken on the basis of a majority vote.

The Supervisory and Control Body has the power to appoint a secretary, who may also be chosen from outside its members, and to regulate all operational aspects concerning its functioning in a specific regulation, drafted and approved by it.

Information flows to company bodies

With reference to the activity of reporting to the company bodies, the Supervisory and Control Body reports at least every six months, through specific written reports: (i) the Board of Directors, concerning the implementation of the Compliance Programme, and (ii) the Board of Statutory Auditors.

At the end of its term in office, the Supervisory and Control Body may - where it deems appropriate - prepare an end-of-term report for the company bodies.

The Board of Directors may ask the Supervisory and Control Body at any time to report on the functioning of the Compliance Programme or on specific situations. In addition, in the event of special needs, it may inform the corporate bodies directly and on its own initiative.

Information flows to the Supervisory Body

The Addressees of the Compliance Programme must provide data and/or information requested by the Supervisory and Control Body according to the contents, manner and frequency set by the Body. To this end, the Supervisory and Control Body prepares a specific document, called the "Information Flow Document" and sends it to the company departments concerned.

The obligations to inform the Supervisory and Control Body are a fundamental tool for the proper performance of supervisory and control activities on the effectiveness of the Compliance Programme and the ex post verification of the causes that may have allowed an offence to occur within the Company. For this reason, any failure by the Addressees to comply with these information obligations or repeated delays in sending the requested data and/or information constitute conduct that may lead to the application of the disciplinary penalties set out in paragraph 2.8 above.

Addressees must also immediately send the Supervisory and Control Body any information concerning measures taken by magistrates, the police or any other public body pertaining to investigations or legal proceedings involving any of the offences covered by Legislative Decree 231/2001 regarding the Company and/or the Addressees.

The storing of all information and reports gathered by the Supervisory and Control Body is the responsibility of the Body itself, in accordance with regulations, rules and conditions for access to the data that guarantee its integrity and privacy.

For the aforementioned information purposes (as well as for clarifications and/or information or for any and all reports as indicated in paragraph 2.9 below), the Supervisory and Control Body also has a specific e-mail address (ovc@digitalia08.it), accessible exclusively by its members and - if appointed - by its secretary.

“SB Portal”

In order to facilitate and support verification and control activities, as well as to ensure an efficient and systematic approach to the management of information flows and, more generally, to the specific performance of its tasks, the Supervisory and Control Body has a dedicated portal, the “SB Portal”, which can be accessed by its members via the company intranet under “Compliance 231”. This tool also allows for the timely filing of both the documentation produced by the Supervisory and Control Body (e.g., minutes of meetings and half-yearly reports to corporate bodies) or received by it from the various corporate functions.

2.9 Whistleblowing

Legislative Decree No. 24 of 10 March 2023 adapted Italian legislation to the minimum standards of protection against the so-called “whistleblowers” provided for by Directive (EU) 2019/1937 (“EU Whistleblowing Directive”), ensuring protection - both in terms of safeguard of confidentiality and in case of retaliation - not only of subjects who expose themselves directly by making reports, complaints or public disclosures regarding violations of national regulatory provisions or EU law and/or illegitimate behaviour¹³, but also of other subjects who contribute to the emergence of such situations.

According to the Decree, entities in both the public and private sectors must implement “their own reporting channels, which ensure, also through the use of encryption tools, the confidentiality of the identity of the whistleblower, of the person involved and of the person in any case mentioned in the report, as well as the content of the report and the report itself.” In addition, reports can also be made using an external channel made available by the ANAC (National Anti-Corruption Authority) or - under certain conditions - through public disclosure.

¹³Specifically, with the term ‘violations’ the Decree refers to: conduct, acts or omissions detrimental to the public interest or the integrity of the public administration or private entity, consisting of (i) administrative, accounting, civil or criminal offences; (ii) unlawful conduct relevant under Legislative Decree 231/01 or violations of the Compliance Programmes; (iii) offences falling within the scope of EU or national acts.

In the light of these regulatory provisions, the Italian companies belonging to the MFE Group (and, therefore, also the Company) have adapted their whistleblowing system through which offences and/or irregularities, including suspicious ones, can be reported, ensuring absolute confidentiality on the identity of the whistleblowers (and of the other persons deserving protection) and ensuring them maximum protection against retaliatory conduct or any form of discrimination or penalisation (hereinafter, the 'Whistleblowing System').

In particular, a specific corporate procedure (LGO MD-HO 125 "Management of Whistleblowing Reports") has been adopted for the regulation of the System at companies under Italian law (including the Company), which - in line with the reference legislation and policies applicable at Group level - has provided for specific internal reporting channels and has identified a specific committee in charge of managing the System, the Whistleblowing Committee.

Therefore, employees and all those who work for/with the Company (and/or other companies under Italian law), regardless of the relationship, whether or not temporary, that binds them to it (such as, by way of example, collaborators, self-employed workers, consultants, volunteers, trainees, suppliers, customers, partners, members of corporate bodies, shareholders) may report - also anonymously - any conduct, act and/or omission, whether or not suspected, illegal, improper or immoral, that harms the public interest or the integrity of the Group companies, of which the whistleblower has come to learn of as part of their work, through the following internal channels:

- computer platform, also through voice messaging, available at a dedicated LINK;
- e-mail: comitato.whistleblowing@mediaset.it;
- certified email (PEC): comitato.whistleblowing@pec.mediaset.it;
- direct personal meeting with the Whistleblowing Committee, at the specific request of the whistleblower, formulated using the above channels.

Details and information on the use of internal channels, the conditions for using the external channel, and the Whistleblowing System in general, can be found in the relevant section of the MFE Group's corporate website, available at www.nfemediaforeurope.com/it/governance/compliance/ as well as in the new "Whistleblowing" area of the corporate Intranet.

The Supervisory and Control Body is provided by the Whistleblowing Committee - at the intervals provided for in the corporate procedure referred to above - with a special report containing a summary of the reports received, the investigative activities carried out, any corrective actions identified and the follow-up given to them.

2.10 Information and training

Specific communication and training plan are periodically defined to ensure that the Addressees are made aware of the principles and provisions of the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or associated company procedures/rules of conduct. The Company also adopts specific measures to ensure that the Addressees are actually aware of the aforesaid principles and provisions, with sufficient diversification according to their roles, responsibilities and duties, and with due regard to the areas in which individual Addressees operate. This plan is managed by the competent corporate functions, which coordinate with the Supervisory and Control Body and follow any indications provided by it.

Communications

The Company has adopted specific procedures for disseminating the Compliance Programme and the associated company procedures/rules of conduct to the Addressees within the Company that ensure traceable consultation. The Compliance Programme is also published: (i) on the MFE Group website on the page www.mfemediaforeurope.com/it/governance/compliance/ (ii) on the company intranet (where the company procedures that refer to it can also be found) in the section “Compliance 231”.

Knowledge of the provisions on corporate administrative liability and compliance with the resulting rules must be an integral part of the professional culture of all Addressees (especially employees). Therefore, to make information on the Compliance Programme even more accessible, internal Addressees can consult a specific, regularly updated “Compliance 231” portal accessible via the company intranet system. The portal contains the text of the Decree and the regulations that introduced the various predicate offences, the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme, judgments on Compliance, doctrinal analyses, presentations, cases studies, etc.

The adoption of the Compliance Programme and updates to it are also communicated to external Addressees (collaborators, suppliers, etc.). These Addressees’ formal commitment to comply with the principles of the Code of Ethics, Compliance Programme and/or associated company procedures is documented by duly accepted and signed contractual clauses.

Training activities

The training plans take into consideration the many variables present in the reference context, such as (i) the characteristics of the Addressees involved in the training interventions, their level of responsibility and organisational role held; (ii) content (in particular, topics relating to the role of the people involved in the training sessions); (iii) the type of training environment (classroom, e-learning); (iv) the time involved in providing, carrying out (preparation and duration of sessions) and accessing the training (time commitment for recipients); (v) the actions necessary to ensure adequate support for the training (promotion, support from direct supervisors).

The courses are also organised according to the key aims of providing: (a) general information and awareness; (b) ad hoc training on specific issues (e.g. new company procedures or updates to existing procedures).

The training deals, in general, with the law on corporate administrative liability (i.e., the consequences for the Company of any offences committed by persons/entities who act on its behalf), the essential characteristics of the offences set out in the Decree and, more specifically, with the principles of the Code of Ethics, the Compliance Programme and/or the associated company procedures/rules of conduct, as well as the specific preventive aims of the Compliance Programme in this area.

The training modules take into account, in particular, the risk level of the area of activity in which the Addressees operate.

The training plan takes the form, depending on the case and the specific needs, of courses to be held in the classroom (or via e-learning, which allows for the timely and widespread dissemination of the contents common to all internal Addressees of the Company (and is normally also used for new hires).

Where necessary, for those who work within the Company's "areas of at-risk activity" (paragraph 2.4 above), targeted meetings are defined in order to disseminate knowledge of the types of offences that can be committed in the specific area of activity, of the control measures defined for the areas of competence, and to illustrate the operating methods with which day-to-day activities must be carried out. Training is highly interactive and use case studies to facilitate learning and understanding.

There is a final test for both the classroom courses and the e-learning modules, designed to check the level of learning (and if necessary propose additional, "ad hoc" training).

The training courses are updated to take account of changes to laws and regulations and the Compliance Programme. Specifically, important changes (e.g. extending corporate administrative liability to new types of crimes that directly affect the company or internal organisational changes) are duly integrated into the training courses, ensuring that the Addressees are informed.

Training activities (both classroom and e-learning courses) are managed, monitored and documented by the competent corporate function, which is responsible for the relevant traceability.

The Supervisory and Control Body periodically verifies, also by means of the data and information periodically provided by the competent corporate function, the state of implementation of the training plan and, if necessary, may request specific checks on the contents of the training modules, the planning and implementation of the training plans and the level of knowledge and understanding acquired by the Addressees.

SECTION IV Precautionary measures

Article 45. Application of precautionary measures

1. When there is strong proof which suggests that an entity is responsible for an administrative offence arising from a crime and there are well-founded and specific elements that point to the concrete possibility of the danger that further offences of the same type will be committed, the public prosecutor can ask for the application as a precautionary measure of one of the prohibitory penalties envisaged in Article 9, paragraph 2, presenting the judge with the facts on which this request is based, including any elements in favour of the entity and any deductions and defence statements already submitted.
2. The judge will then make an order based on this request, indicating the method of applying the measure. The provisions of Article 292 Code of Criminal Procedure apply.
3. In the event of precautionary prohibitory measures, the judge may nominate a court-appointed administrator in accordance with Article 15 for a period equal to the duration of the precautionary measure.

Article 46. Criteria for selecting measures

1. When ordering precautionary measures, the judge takes into account the specific suitability of each of the available measures in relation to the nature and the degree of the need for precautionary measures in the case in question.
2. Each precautionary measure must be proportional to the gravity of the fact and to the penalty that could be applied to the entity.
3. Disqualification from carrying out the activity can only be applied as a precautionary measure when all other measures are judged to be inadequate.
4. Precautionary measures cannot be applied jointly.

Article 47. Competent judge and application procedure

1. The judge in the case is responsible for deciding on the application and revocation of precautionary measures as well as for amending how they are enforced. The preliminary investigation judge is responsible during the preliminary investigation, and The provisions of Article 91 of Legislative Decree No 271 of 28 July 1989 also apply.

The entity and the defence lawyers are also advised that the request made by the public prosecutor and the elements the request is based on are available for inspection with the clerk of the court.
3. In the hearing envisaged under paragraph 2, the provisions of Article 127, paragraphs 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 10 of the Code of Criminal Procedure apply; the terms envisaged in paragraphs 1 and 2 of the aforementioned Article are reduced respectively to five and three days. Article 48. Enforcement obligations

1. The public prosecutor is responsible for notifying the entity of a ruling concerning the application of a precautionary measure.

Article 49. Suspension of precautionary measures

1. Precautionary measures can be suspended if the entity requests to be able to invoke the obligations with which the law regulates the exclusion of prohibitory penalties in accordance with Article 17. In this case, the judge, after conferring with the public prosecutor, and if the request is granted, establishes an amount of money as security, suspends the measures and indicates the terms for the reparatory actions as envisaged in article 17.
2. The security consists of depositing an amount of money with the court that must not be inferior to half the minimum financial penalty for the offence in question. Instead of the deposit, a guarantee can be provided by mortgage or joint and several guarantee.
3. In case of incomplete, ineffective or failure to perform the activity in accordance with the established terms, the precautionary measure is reinstated and the deposit or guarantee will be kept by the court.
4. If the conditions referred to in Article 17 are met, the judge will revoke the precautionary measure and return the security or cancel the mortgage; the guarantee therefore lapses.

Article 50. Revocation and substitution of precautionary measures

1. The precautionary measures are revoked if the conditions for applying them envisaged in Article 45 no longer apply, including for unexpected reasons, or when provisions contained in Article 17 apply.
2. If the need for precautionary measures diminishes or if the measures applied are no longer proportional to the gravity of the offence or to the penalties that could be definitively applied, the judge, on request from the public prosecutor or the entity, may substitute the measure with another, less serious measure or order it to be applied less severely, including by setting a shorter duration.

Article 51. Maximum duration of precautionary measures

1. When ordering precautionary measures, the judge also decides on the duration.
2. After conviction at first instance, the duration of the precautionary measure may be as long as the corresponding sanction applied with the same judgment. In any case, the duration of the precautionary measure may not exceed one year and four months.
3. The term of the precautionary measure begins from the date on which the ruling is given.
4. The duration of the precautionary measure is calculated on the duration of the penalties definitively applied.

If the seizure, carried out for the purposes of equivalent confiscation envisaged by paragraph 2 of Article 19, concerns companies, businesses or assets, including securities, equities or cash even if on deposit, the court-appointed administration allows the corporate bodies to use and manage them solely to ensure business continuity and development, exercising the powers of supervision and reporting back to the legal authorities. In the event of breach of the aforesaid purpose, the legal authorities shall take the consequent decisions and can appoint an administrator to exercise shareholder powers. This appointment fulfils the obligations under Article 104 of the implementing, coordination and transitional provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, referred to in Legislative Decree no. 271 of 28 July 1989. In the event of seizure to the detriment of companies operating establishments of national strategic interest and their subsidiaries, the provisions of Decree-Law 61 of 4 June 2013, ratified with amendments by Law 89 of 3 August 2013, apply.

Article 54. Precautionary seizure

1. If there is good reason to believe that there is no collateral for the payment of financial penalties, the cost of the proceedings or any other amount due to tax authorities, or that this collateral may be lost, the public prosecutor, at any stage of the case including during any eventual appeal proceedings, may request the precautionary seizure of movable goods and real estate belonging to the entity or of money or goods due to the entity. Below are the organisational and control measures (general and specific) adopted by the Company and considered suitable for preventing the risk of committing offences and/or the administrative offences provided for by Legislative Decree 231/01 within the areas of activity potentially considered at risk of offence.

I. GENERAL CONTROL MEASURES

Listed below are the general control measures applicable across all areas of at-risk activity:

- The Company has adopted a Code of Ethics governing the fundamental principles and values that guide the Company in the management of its activities, such as:
 - (i) principles applied in business relations (honesty, loyalty, propriety, transparency and good faith) and in relations with public institutions (compliance with current laws and regulations, honesty, fairness, transparency and loyalty);
 - (ii) principles for the selection of professionals that the Group companies may use (reliability and seriousness in terms of compliance with current laws and regulations and the rules governing their profession/work);
 - (iii) principles to which professionals contracted by the company must follow in conducting business (compliance with laws and regulations, propriety, diligence, minimising cost);
 - (iv) ban on illicit payments in relations with institutions and public officials and the prohibition of the offer of money, gifts or benefits of any kind to suppliers, customers and third parties in general, in order to obtain undue advantages, real or apparent, of any kind;
 - (v) prohibition of practices of corruption, favouritism, collusion, direct and/or indirect requests, also through promises of personal benefits against any representative of the Public Administration;
 - (vi) principles related to accounting (management transparency, completeness and transparency of information, legal and substantial legitimacy, clarity and veracity of accounting in accordance with current laws and procedures);
 - (vii) standards in financial reporting (truthfulness, accuracy, traceability, completeness and clarity of the information, in accordance with current rules and regulations and company procedures, the accounting records and in all activities concerning the preparation of the financial reports and other communications required by law and addressed to shareholders and third parties).
- The Company has adopted the “General Anti-Corruption Guidelines,” aimed at identifying the principles of conduct and control to be implemented in areas at risk in order to prevent and repress corruption.
- The Company has established powers of attorney and delegated powers for representatives of the Company, in line with their roles and responsibilities and the tasks carried out by them, and to enable them, for example, to:
 - formulate and sign the applications and/or requests aimed at applying for grants/subsidies from organisations and/or national, community and international public institutions, and/or funding to implement initiatives, courses, training programmes and services for employees, and draw up and sign the associated agreements or conventions;

- carry out all banking activities (deposits and the issue and collection of cheques and bills);

 - Specifically selected units of the business are assigned responsibilities for overseeing the internal control and risk management system of the Group, each in their own areas of expertise (e.g. Internal Auditing, the team that supports the Financial Reporting Manager, the Prevention and Protection Service). Reporting flows are established between the above units, to provide coordinated and efficient oversight of the Mediaset Group's internal control and risk management system.
 - The Code of Ethics and Compliance Programme adopted by the Company are made available to third parties that have relations with the Company, in order to inform them of the content of the aforementioned documents and their updates.

ANNEX D

GENERAL ANTI-CORRUPTION GUIDELINES¹

REGULATORY CONTEXT

In recent years, there has been a progressive strengthening of the commitment to fight corruption and, to this end, a series of regulatory measures aimed at preventing and suppressing corrupt phenomena within the public and private sector have been adopted by almost all countries, at international² and national³ level.

Italy is among those that have taken action, through Law 190 of 6 November 2012 (which ratified the Strasbourg Convention of 1999 on “Measures for the prevention and combating of corruption and illegality in public administration” - the so-called Anti-Corruption Law). The law strengthens the tools at Italy’s disposal for tackling corrupt practices, including harsher punishments for the perpetrators of various crimes. It also expanded the so-called catalogue of predicate offences under Legislative Decree 231/01 (i.e. crimes that result in corporate administrative liability, adding “illegal inducement to give or promise benefits” (Article 319-quater, Criminal Code) to crimes against the public administration and reformulating “private-to-private corruption” (Article 2635 Civil Code) as a corporate crime.

Legislative Decree 38 of 15 March 2017, entitled “Implementation of Framework Decision 2003/568/JHA on combating corruption in the private sector” then introduced a series of significant changes to private-to-private corruption, in particular a new formulation of Article 2635 of the Civil Code, extending the list of the perpetrators of the crime to include - in addition to those who hold top management and control positions - also those who carry out work activities with the exercise of managerial duties at companies and private entities. Also, Article 2365 bis (Incitement to private-to-private corruption) was added, which was therefore added to the list of crimes that can result in corporate administrative liability.

Finally, with Law No. 3 of 9 January 2019 (“Measures to combat crimes against the Public Administration as well as on the prescription of the crime and on the transparency of political parties and movements”) the main and accessory penalties for corruption crimes were tightened, making the preliminary investigations more effective and limiting the access of convicts to prison benefits. This measure also introduced significant changes to Legislative Decree 231/01, including among the predicate offences “trafficking in illicit influences” (Article 346-bis of the Criminal Code) and increasing the duration of prohibitory penalties against companies responsible for offences against the Public Administration

⁶For the different types of corruption, please refer to the Articles 318, 319, 319-bis, 319-ter, 319-quater, 320, 321, 322, 322-bis and 346-bis of the Criminal Code and Articles 2635, 2365-bis and 2365-ter of the Civil Code (Annex A).

⁷"Unethical behaviour" means conduct that, while not illegal, is not "correct" or what should be expected, in general, from an employee of the Group or one of the Addressees.

⁸Article 357 of the Criminal Code: "For the purposes of criminal law, public officials are those who perform a public legislative, judicial or administrative function. For the same purposes, public functions are administrative functions regulated by the provisions of public law and by authoritative acts, characterised by the manifestation of the will of the Public Administration or by its implementation by means of authoritative or certification powers."

⁹Article 358 of the Criminal Code: "Public service officers are those who, for any purpose, perform a public service." A public service is understood to be an activity governed in the same ways as a public function, but characterised by the lack of powers typical of the latter, and excludes the performance of simple duties and works of a merely material nature." This includes, for example, the credit collectors of a gas distribution company, employees of public agencies who assist public officials in their work, the caretaker of a cemetery, security guards driving an armoured cash delivery vehicle. Public service is identified as an activity subject to the same rules of the civil service, but without the typical powers that characterise it, such as deliberative, authoritative and certification powers, which qualify it as a mere material activity. It is therefore a residual category, including those that can not be called either public officials or operators of an essential public service.

GENERAL PRINCIPLES

MFE Group companies comply with all the rules and provisions contained in the Anti-Corruption Laws. In accordance with the provisions of Article 19 of the company's Code of Ethics, the Mediaset Group Companies require the Addressees to carry on business relationships based on the principles of legality, loyalty, propriety, transparency and efficiency, and to refrain from engaging in corrupt practices of any kind. The MFE Group companies deplore and condemn any and all corrupt behaviour or activity including, without limitation, illegitimate favouritism, collusion, solicitations - made directly and/or through third parties - for personal benefits of any kind for themselves or for others.

Any Addressee acting in the name or on behalf of Group companies in business relationships with public or private entities must therefore always and in all circumstances behave in an ethical manner according to the law and in full compliance with the aforementioned principles.

In general, Addressees are forbidden to directly or indirectly give, receive, pay, demand or offer compensation of any kind, promises and/or undue offers of money, gifts, economic benefits, benefits of any kind or other benefits from or to a Public Official and/or entity that they directly or indirectly represent that: (i) arise from solicitations of any kind; (ii) are likely to be interpreted as intended to unduly influence the relationship between the Group Companies and the public official and/or the entity represented by the same, irrespective of whether they were pursuing, even exclusively, the interest or advantage of the Group Company.

Similarly, the Addressees are forbidden to directly or indirectly give, receive, pay, demand or offer compensation of any nature, promises and/or undue offers of money, gifts, economic benefits, or benefits of any kind or other gains, either to a private individual and/or entity that they directly or indirectly represent that: (i) are not of a modest value or related to solicitations of any kind; (ii) are likely to be interpreted as aimed at unduly influencing the relationships between the MFE Group companies and the private party cited and/or the entity represented by the same, regardless of the purpose of pursuing, also exclusively, the interest or benefit of the Group Company.

Addressees are also prohibited from accepting, exerting, making or giving pressure, recommendations or instructions that could harm the Group companies or result in undue advantages for themselves, for the Group companies or third parties.

In relations with suppliers, customers and third parties in general, it is not permitted to make personal promises, offers of money, gifts, payments, economic benefits, benefits or other assets that are aimed at obtaining undue advantages, real or apparent, of any kind.

The traceability must also be guaranteed of every operation, transaction or, in general, activity that the Group companies perform and, in particular, those carried out in "areas of at-risk activities", as indicated in the Compliance Programmes pursuant to Legislative Decree 231 of the individual companies. This is so that it is always possible to reconstruct ex post the reasons for choices made, the persons responsible for the individual activities undertaken, and any further information relevant to the assessment of the substantial correctness, legality and propriety of decisions taken.

AREAS OF AT-RISK ACTIVITIES

Based on the results of the activities to identify risks within the MFE Group companies, below are the main areas of remotely relevant activities identified as being "at risk", with specific reference to the possible commission of the crimes of public and private corruption.¹⁰

Therefore, this is a summary of the main areas where particular attention must be paid to corporate compliance, with specific regard to the prevention and combating of corrupt practices.

With regard to “areas of at-risk activity”, each Group company has defined general and specific controls, also adopting Corporate Procedures where necessary. Listed below are the “key” preventive controls with reference to the areas of at-risk activity mentioned above.

Managing relations with public authorities and institutions

Relations with Public Institutions and Bodies are characterised by cooperation and transparency, and are conducted in compliance with current legislation (including, in particular, Anti-Corruption Laws), with the principles and values expressed in the Code of Ethics, in the Compliance Programmes pursuant to Legislative Decree 231 and in the Corporate Procedures, on the basis of the general criteria of fairness, transparency and loyalty.

Consequently, it is prohibited to make illegal payments in relations with institutions and with Public Officials. Also prohibited are practices of corruption, favouritism, collusion, solicitations for direct and/ or indirect advantage through donations or promises of personal gain with respect to any part of the Public Administration or to other connected parties connected (i.e. relatives, in-laws, etc.).

Procurement of goods and services

Suppliers of goods and/or services are selected based on checks of their reliability, reputation and diligence in terms of compliance with rules and regulations (with particular reference to the specific provisions governing their own activities) as well as the appropriate technical/professional qualifications.

Activities relating to the selection of suppliers, the procurement of goods and/or services and the definition of the conditions of purchase must:

- (i) ensure the timely identification of suppliers and the traceability of supply channels;
- (ii) be based on the evaluation of objective parameters such as quality, price, service guarantees, timeliness and efficiency;
- (iii) ensure the quality and legitimacy of the goods or services purchased;
- (iv) be characterised by impartiality and the granting of equal opportunities to all suppliers who meet the requirements.

As part of the procurement process for goods and services, it is necessary that:

- (i) relations with suppliers are managed by people of independent judgment and appropriate abilities;
- (ii) the experience, technical requirements and existence of any negative events relating to the suppliers (e.g. absence of pending investigations/judgments, including in relation to corrupt practices) are assured before finalising business relationships;
- (iii) contracts are in writing, according to the standards in use and accompanied by specific clauses that, among other things, oblige counterparts to respect the ethical principles contained in the Code of Ethics and the Compliance Programme pursuant to Legislative Decree 231 (including those relating to anti-corruption);
- (iv) the consideration paid to the counterparts is supported by adequate documentation proving that the services provided by the suppliers are in line with contractual provisions.

Sale of goods and services

The sales activities are carried out by offering goods and services at competitive conditions, in compliance with the rules of the sector and those for the protection of competition and consumers, recognising that the appreciation of customers is paramount to business success.

As part of the sales process for goods and services, it is necessary that:

- (i) customer relationships are managed by people of independent judgment and appropriate abilities;
- (ii) the reliability of clients with whom business relations are maintained is assured before entering into commercial relations via an analysis of financial indicators, and that clients are reviewed in order to verify corporate transparency and detect any prejudicial events and/or impediments;
- (iii) the contracts governing relations with customers are prepared according to the standards in use, accompanied by specific clauses that, among other things, oblige counterparts to respect the ethical principles contained in the Code of Ethics and the Compliance Programme pursuant to Legislative Decree 231 (including those relating to anti-corruption);
- (iv) services for customers are carried out in accordance with currently valid contracts.

Managing relationships with agents and intermediaries

If agents and/or intermediaries are employed for the performance of the Group's activities, prior to the establishment of contractual relations with them, it is necessary that:

- (i) the economic utility of the intermediation is verified;
- (ii) the identity, experience, qualifications and reputation of the agents and/or intermediaries are ascertained;
- (iii) it is verified whether the agents and/or intermediaries to be used meet the technical/professional/organisational requirements necessary to adequately perform the activity requested of them; and
- (iv) it is ascertained whether the agents and/or intermediaries to be used have been subject to investigations relating to corruption offences or other illegal or otherwise risky activities.

Managing gifts and entertainment expenses

MFE Group companies offer gifts and incur expenses on behalf of third parties only for commercial, institutional and promotional purposes, in compliance with current laws and regulations, ethical principles and company procedures. It is also forbidden, in relations with suppliers, customers and third parties in general, to give gifts, offers of money, presents or benefits of any kind - also personally, indirectly or through an intermediary - aimed at obtaining undue advantages, real or apparent of any kind for the Group Companies.

Managing sponsorships and donations

MFE Group companies grant sponsorships and make donations exclusively for promotional, cultural, philanthropic and sports reasons.

Sponsorships and donations must be granted in line with the principles defined in the Code of Ethics and in line with the procedures established by the company and formalised through the standards in use.

Prior to the award of a sponsorship and/or donation, appropriate checks are carried out on the formal requirements of individual operations and the characteristics of the beneficiary.

Selecting, recruiting and managing personnel

The process of selection and recruitment of staff is conducted in compliance with the principles defined in the Code of Ethics and the provisions of Corporate Procedures, with the aim of promoting equal opportunities, training, development and professional growth, and the exclusion of all forms of discrimination.

MANAGEMENT OF WHISTLEBLOWING

The Companies of the MFE Group encourage the Addressees and, in general, anyone who has an interest, to report, without detrimental consequences of any kind, any violations of this document. In this sense, in compliance with EU and national legislation, the Group Companies have implemented specific Internal Channels through which offences and/or irregularities, whether or not suspicious, can be reported, ensuring absolute confidentiality on the identity of the reporting parties (and of other persons deserving protection) and ensuring them maximum protection against retaliatory conduct or any form of discrimination or penalisation.

Therefore, any violations of this document may also be reported to the Whistleblowing Committee (also anonymously) through the Internal Channels, according to the terms and procedures described in the Company Procedures in force from time to time. Reports concerning violations and/or unlawful conduct relevant under Decree 231 or violations of the Code of Ethics and/or of the Compliance Programmes pursuant to Legislative Decree 231 may also be sent to the e-mail boxes of the Supervisory and Control Bodies, where established by the individual companies. In such cases, the recipient of the report shall in any case refer the handling of the report to the Whistleblowing Committee.

SYSTEM OF PENALTIES

Violations of the provisions of this document may lead - if ascertained - to the application of penalties against the Addressees responsible for them, as indicated, inter alia, in the Compliance Programmes pursuant to Legislative Decree 231, in order to protect the interests of the Companies of the MFE Group. This applies regardless of the initiation of any criminal or administrative proceedings - in cases where the conduct does or does not constitute an offence - and of the outcome of the ensuing judgement.

INFORMATION AND TRAINING

Within the framework of the information and training activities implemented by the Group's Companies on compliance with Legislative Decree No. 231, training initiatives specifically dedicated to the contents of this document are envisaged, with different modalities and levels of detail, depending on the roles covered, the functions, the responsibilities held by the individual Addressees involved, as well as the actual level of risk of the area of activity in which they operate.
